We can do it: The Peggy Wills story

SENIOR AIRMAN APRYL HALL | MINOT AIR FORCE BASE PUBLIC AFFAIRS

MINOT AIR FORCE BASE, N.D. -- At 94 years old, she doesn't look a day over 70 as she flexes her bicep with a smile on her face. A denim button-down shirt, bright red bandana holding back her curls and the strong, confident demeanor of a woman America recognizes instantly. She is a true Rosie the Riveter.

Margaret "Peggy" Wills was born in 1922 in Bozeman, Montana. Her father was a World War I veteran who left the war early due to injury, and kept a victory garden to help feed his seven children. Once the Great Depression had taken everything it could from them, including Wills' mother, they picked up and moved to St. Paul, Minnesota.

Then 19-years-old and looking for work to help the family, Wills applied for a job at Holman Field near St. Paul. Thinking she was going to be doing secretarial work, the Second World War forced a job title change, and she soon realized she would be doing work slightly out of her comfort zone.

"They call everybody who did anything on the planes, they called them all 'Rosie the Riveter,'" Wills said. "They would have to say, 'Rosie the Electrician' because that's what I did."

Wills' crew of around 12 people, both men and women, were given a crash course on electrical work before they began working on wartime aircraft.

"They brought the B-24s in at the end of our hangar, and we finished up by doing the electrical work like running lights and the warm air used to keep the pilots' suits warm," Wills said. "There was a lot of stuff, I couldn't think of all the stuff we did!"

Wills caught on quickly and began to enjoy her work, despite the 12-hour shifts and the hard manual labor.

"To me, the most important thing was just doing it, not thinking about it," Wills said. "I had had it hard all my life and it was never any harder than any of that. I was just glad I had a job and happy I could do a good job at it."

To add to her sense of accomplishment, Wills took pride in her work. She realized in a short time she was doing her part in helping our nation during a time of war.

"I was doing the right thing," she said. "Somebody had to do the electrical work or they wouldn't fly. I was always so happy every time I left the plane. The guys would say, 'Your work was all good,' and that made me feel good. I never had accolades for anything I'd ever done really."

Pride was evident all over Holman Field during WWII, Wills said. When they weren't working around-the-clock to launch the B-24 fleet, they were giving blood for the Red Cross. A time Wills admits she stuffed tools into her coveralls in order to meet the weight requirement to donate blood.

"It was a large place, but we all were very patriotic I think," Wills said. "There was a time when they came in to give us a certain amount of money. We turned it down because our boys were fighting and dying over there."

During a trip to Fort Snelling, a man approached Wills asking her if she would talk with him. He told her he was home on leave and was contemplating going AWOL because he didn't want to go back to war, afraid he wouldn't make it home again. Wills could see how distraught he was and tried her best to encourage him.

"Me with my big heart, I said, 'You're going to be okay, you just have to have somebody believe in you,'" she said. "He said, 'I want you to say my name.' He thought he wasn't coming back. I've never forgotten it because he made me say it. I did a lot of praying for that boy."

Wills recalls several occasions like that one throughout the three years working as an electrician. It was something she was used to, up until August 15, 1945, when she showed up to work and the atmosphere was celebratory.

"We were all on top of the wings of that B-24 dancing," Wills recalls, smiling. "It was fun just to get together, we were having a good time. I loved working there."

Women were invaluable during the desperate times of WWII. Whether they were fixing running lights on B-24s or encouraging panic-stricken soldiers to keep on going, their efforts were instrumental in America's success.

"It was just that women had never worked and they didn't know what they could do," Wills said. "You know what happens, if a woman does it and it turns out good, she's going to get the okay for it, but boy, the women just flooded in! It made me proud that I was a woman."

Her pride may have been born then, but lives on today. As she looks at the old recruitment poster more than 70 years later, she still emanates the true spirit of a Rosie.

Margaret "Peggy" Wills, B-24 electrician during World War II, holds a recruitment poster at Minot Air Force Base, Feb. 9, 2017. Wills was a Rosie the Riveter at Holman Field in St. Paul, Minn.

Children's Olymics fun had by all

BETH DUCHSHERER | NORTHERN SENTRY

February 18, 2017 – Children from all over Minot and surrounding communities enjoyed a healthy and fun Saturday afternoon thanks to Kohl's Cares® and CHI St. Alexius. The Children's Olymics was a free event for school aged children up to grade five and was held at the MSU Dome from 11 am to 2 pm. The day included many activities such as the football toss, long jump, an inflatable obstacle course and many more.

Erica Davis, Project Specialist for CHI St. Alexius, mentioned that CHI St. Alexius and Kohl's have been partnering together for over eleven years to promote healthy communities and healthy living choices for children and families. The Kohl's Cares® Program provides the monetary funds for the grant that allows CHI St. Alexius to provide children's events, such as the Children's Olymics, to the area communities.

The Children's Olymics began in Bismarck and within a short time has now included Minot. Within the last two years, many local organizations have had the opportunity to share their services. Local clubs like the MSU Science Department demonstrated a hovercraft they built and Make a Scene had their own puppet show. Other local organization such as the Magic City Discovery Center, ATA Martial Arts, and the Minot Fire Department participated with a diverse experience for all children to explore. Every booth was hands on and available for the children and their parents to participate in. At the end of the event, each child was given a medal at the winner's circle as well as the opportunity to sign up to win a bicycle and a helmet.

Air Force (AF) Clubs know it takes more than ambition, good grades, and great numbers on the SAT to get into college these days. That's why for the past nineteen years, they have assisted club members and their families through its annual scholarship program.

According to Mr. Jeff Polangin, Food Services Specialist, the scholarship program is a great benefit for Air Force Club members.

"The Air Force Club Scholarship Program has provided college tuition assistance to 446 Air Force Club members and/or their eligible family members," said Mr. Polangin.

"This is an exclusive club member program," he said, "only club members or eligible family member ID card holders (spouse, child or other eligible family member) working towards their first Associate or Bachelor's degree can apply."

In 2016 a video essay option was introduced with very good participation, so this option will again be offered this year. However, this year essays will be grouped into "Traditional" and "Non-Traditional" categories. Traditional Essay category is defined as any essay (in either written or video format) submitted by an eligible 2017 high school graduating senior. Non-Traditional Essay category is defined as any essay (in either format) submitted by all other eligible club members.

CLUB SCHOLARSHIP

Beginning March 1st, the entrant application located at www.myairforcelife.com is where entrants can complete the application process and upload the required documents. Prior to announcing winners, membership/eligibility status will be verified using Club Works --your account must be active and in good standing.

This year, the Air Force Club Scholarship Program will award ten scholarships totaling $36K. Five in both the "Traditional" and "Non-Traditional" entrant category with scholarship award breakdown as follows: First Place - $7,000, Second Place - $5,000, Third Place - $3,000, Fourth Place - $2,000, and Honorable Mention - $1,000.

For this year's essay we'd like to hear about a time when you were tested to live up to the Air Force core values. Tell us about a specific moment when embodying these ideas was difficult, how you succeeded or failed, what you learned from the experience and how that impacts the way you live your life today. The submission deadline is May 12, 2017. Club Scholarship winners will be announced on June 2, 2017. Eligibility rules, program timeline, and entry form will be available at www.myairforcelife.com/clubs.

Soup it Up 2017

Saturday, February 18 at the Grand the Taube Museum of Art hosted their famous Soup it Up fundraiser. This years soups were tomato basil bisque, portuguese sausage and bean, zuppa toscana, minestrone, cheddar broccoli, creamy sausage and potato, knoeffla and pumpkin chipotle. Soup was donated by Magic City Hoagies, Primo, Olive Garden, Panera Bread, Laura Mihalick, Kroll's Diner and Teri Tingley. Bread was compliments of Magic City Hoagies. With the price of admission patrons were able to choose a handmade soup bowl donated by Linda Olson and MSU ceramic students that they could take home. There were many desserts to choose from as well as vendor booths and a silent auction.
