Something to believe in

AIRMAN 1ST CLASS DILLON J. AUDIT
5TH BOMB WING PUBLIC AFFAIRS

MINOT AIR FORCE BASE, N.D. --

He was only 12 years old when he told his mother he wanted to kill himself. Running with the wrong crowd and living a destructive lifestyle had taken its toll. By the time he turned 19, he was on his way for the last haircut of his life.

"I was going to get a haircut so that I would look good for the casket," said Capt. Jason D. Raines, 5th Bomb Wing chaplain.

While Raines was there, he noticed a woman who was a nail stylist and asked the person who was cutting his hair to set him up with her.

To this day, I wholly believe she, by the grace of God, saved my life," said Raines. "Had it not been for her, I would not be here today."

Soon after they married, Raines learned his wife was pregnant. Knowing he needed to support his wife and child, he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force. That's when he first started to take interest in religion.

"Basic training wasn't the easiest environment to deal with stress," said Raines. "The first Sunday I went to chapel, there was a protestant service. I gave my life to Christ. Being so new to me, I had no idea what I was getting into."

After basic training, Raines went to Buckley Air Force Base, Colo. as a satellite wideband and telemetry technician. However, he was soon sent to South Korea as a tactical wideband technician. It was there that he started to realize his call to military ministry.

"When I got to South Korea I noticed a lot of bad things," said Raines. "I felt those behaviors were not conducive with the Christian way of life. It really made me sad and I wondered where was the person who was supposed to bring morale."

After giving it thought, Raines realized he could be that person by becoming a military chaplain.

"Early on in my time as a chaplain, my whole goal was to get out and know everybody," said Raines. "At my first assignment there were about 1,400 active duty personnel, and I probably knew 70 percent of the base by first name."

Raines said knowing people is the "bread and butter" of being a chaplain. Meeting people, letting people know what chaplains do and becoming a resource for them is all part of his mission.

"It really boils down to how you interact with the Airmen that are in front of you," said Raines.

Raines said, being a chaplain is rewarding, but it takes a strong mental and emotional mindset to deal with the unexpected.

"I've had experiences that I have never dealt with," Raines began. "But, I always look for a way to empathize with anyone who comes through my door."

Raines turned his life around from nothing into helping and taking care of people. He considers himself a guide toward helping and

Air Force Scientific Advisory Board announces 2018 studies

SECRETARY OF THE AIR FORCE PUBLIC AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON (AFNS) -- The Air Force Scientific Advisory Board revealed its 2018 major studies during their Fall meeting Sept. 21, 2017, in Arlington, Virginia.

The new study areas focus on topics deemed critical by the secretary of the Air Force and chief of staff of the Air Force.

Maintaining technology superiority is the larger of the two studies and designed to align with Secretary of the Air Force Heather Wilson's focus on improving the science and technology enterprise.

"We will listen broadly and engage those who are on the cutting edge of science so that we can focus our research efforts on the pathways that are vital to our future as a service," said Wilson. "The United States will develop technologies to secure air dominance. We will underwrite our nation's military supremacy. We will remain sentry and avenger for our nation."

The study, designed to complement the Air Force Research Laboratory-led science and technology review, will provide an independent, expert perspective on the critical air, space and cyber technology development needed in the 2030 and beyond environment, and propose policies, processes and mechanism that enable more rapid, affordable and effective transitions of capability that provides distinctive advantage into the hands of the warfighter.

The AFSAB is an Air Force sponsored advisory board composed of leading experts in science, technology and engineering across national laboratories, universities, federally funded research and development centers and industry.

"We present the most challenging technology issues the service faces to the best and brightest in specific science fields," said Dr. Werner Dahm, Scientific Advisory Board chairman. "Throughout the board's more than 70-year history, many of the recommendations it has made have had major impacts on the Air Force."

The other study the board will conduct in 2018, technologies for enabling resilient command and control, will examine the current capabilities and limitations in command and control and how to improve those systems. It will also assess technologies that can enhance effectiveness and resilience of Air Force command and control.

In 2017, the board conducted three studies: penetrating counter-air technology; adapting Air Force test and evaluation to emerging systems and nuclear surety and certification for emerging systems.

The NCE study panel provided six recommendations on not only technological improvements, but ones to ensure that certification tasks are properly resourced with the right skills and priority. For example, they recommended introducing additional system engineering processes at key points in nuclear weapons system certification.

The Air Force test and evaluation to emerging systems study panel provided recommendations that focused on a robust process to recognize and quickly mitigate deficiencies that arise at any point in testing due to hardware, software or the environment. These mitigations will be done in a timely and cost effective manner.

There is no releasable information of findings and recommendations for the study on penetrating counter air.

and purpose," said Raines. "It's really strengthened that my value system is what it is. It's what we bring to the fight as chaplains, being that person that gives people hope, care and concern in times of calm and crisis."

Fall Bowling League Registration At Rough Rider Lanes

Rough Rider Lanes invites you to strike up some fun through participation in one of their many fall bowling leagues. Bowling leagues offer Minot AFB personnel a great opportunity to get out of the house or dorm during the fall and winter months. Leagues are great for getting a bunch of friends and family together to form a team or join others who would like to be in a league and make new friends.

You definitely don't need to be a terrific bowler to join a league and enjoy a weekly bowling outing.

Rough Rider Lanes set up their leagues so low average bowlers can compete with high average bowlers. All but one of their leagues is organized with a handicap for all bowlers to make bowling more fun. A novice bowler with a 100 average receives anywhere from 80-100 pins of handicap to compete against a 200 average score bowler who does not receive any handicap.

At Rough Rider Lanes, participants may choose from both sanctioned and non-sanctioned leagues. Sanctioned leagues have a one-time sanctioning fee per bowler. This payment covers the bowler for all sanctioned leagues they bowl in for the season.

Some of the leagues available at Rough Riders Lanes include a Spouse League on Mondays, Scotch Doubles League on Tuesdays, Squadron Extramural League on Wednesdays, a Mixed Couples League on Thursdays, a Mixed Fun League on Fridays, and a 9 Pin No Tap League on either Tuesdays or Thursdays. The bowling center also offers a variety of Youth Leagues on Saturdays for children ages 3-17 years old. For additional information, please contact Rough Rider Lanes at 727-4715.

Minot State NOTSTOCK: Come create art with us

MINOT STATE UNIVERSITY

MINOT, N.D. – In its 11th year, NOTSTOCK urges Minot and surrounding communities to “come create art with us!”

Minot State University sponsors its annual art festival, NOTSTOCK, Oct. 4-7 at various locations on the MSU campus. For a complete list of times, events, and featured guests of a free-and-open-to-the-public event, please visit the NOTSTOCK blog at msunotstock.blogspot.com.

Get your hands dirty throwing on a potter's wheel; screen print a T-shirt; share a poem at the poetry slam; attempt a tongue twister; take the stage; or get behind the camera. Only at NOTSTOCK can guests work shoulder to shoulder with professionals in their fields as well as local talents. There are also opportunities to view art exhibits, attend presentations given by NOTSTOCK guest artists, listen to live music, or get a gift for someone.

“NOTSTOCK delivers a campus and community-wide arts-energy that allows individuals to discover HOW a great song, a cool T-shirt design, or a hand-crafted bracelet makes our lives richer,” Bill Harbort, art professor and NOTSTOCK co-organizer, said.

This year's printmakers are Ryan Duggan and Elizabeth Kovach of Chicago. Kovach is a screen printer, and her husband, Duggan, is an artist and printer, who, for the last 11 years, has made concert posters and art prints under the name Drug Factory Press while also making “fine” art under his given name. Their artwork will be on display in the Northwest Art Center Hartnett Hall Gallery Oct. 4-26.

There will be an artists' reception for Duggan and Kovach Wednesday, Oct. 4, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the gallery. Also see them print live in the Student Center Beaver Dam Oct. 5-7. They will also speak about their work at 10 a.m. on Thursday, Oct. 5, and at noon on Friday, Oct. 6, in Aleshire Theater. Their work will be available for purchase at the event.

WordStock excitedly welcomes Oompa, a nationally-acclaimed, Boston-born, poet, rapper, and educator. She is the winner of the 2017 Women of the World Poetry Slam, and a finalist at the 2017 National Poetry Slam. She has been featured in Huffington Post, Allston Pudding, Mass Apparel, and KillerBoomBox among others. Oompa's debut album, Nov. 3, was named one of Dig Boston's Top 30 Local Albums of 2016. Oompa will perform Thursday, Oct. 5, at 7 p.m. in Aleshire Theater. She will also conduct workshops with students throughout her stay and host the Friday, Oct. 6, Poetry Slam in the Beaver Dam at 1 p.m.

“Music, poetry, and artwork fill the Beaver Dam for three days and bring camaraderie to all who attend,” Katie Abrahamson, art student and NOTSTOCK volunteer, said. “NOTSTOCK gives the Minot community the chance to expand their horizons and discover various artists, processes, styles, and entertainment.”

PotStock opens its eighth year with ceramicist Guillermo Guardia. Guardia spent many years as an artist in Grand Forks, N.D., and recently moved to St. Paul, Minn., where he continues his work. He and MSU faculty and students will give ceramics demonstrations Oct. 5-7 in the atrium of the Student Center. Guillermo will give a presentation of his work Thursday, Oct. 5, at noon in Aleshire Theater.

Theater continues to be a part of NOTSTOCK. This year Minot State alum, Chris Stroschein, returns to the stage to share improv tools and techniques in a fun, risk-free environment. Similarly, NDstrong returns with one-hour filmmaking workshops twice during the event.

A favorite NOTSTOCK activity, daily do-it-yourself screen printing, continues in the Beaver Dam Oct. 5-6 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Oct. 7 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Visitors can choose a NOTSTOCK design and “pull” their own screen print. Bring a T-shirt, hoodie, tote bag, or other item for printing, or buy a T-shirt at the event. While there, compete in hilarious tongue twister contests each day.

CraftStock returns to the atrium of the Student Center all three days, Oct. 5-7. Local artists will have their work available for purchase. Local music will also be featured during the event, especially on Saturday.

“Saturday (Oct. 7) is always community day at NOTSTOCK. It is a wonderful day for families to attend and participate,” said Laurie Geller, vice president for academic affairs and NOTSTOCK co-organizer. “NOTSTOCK awakens the artist in everyone.”

NOTSTOCK closes with a reception at 62 Doors Gallery & Studios Saturday, Oct. 7, at 7 p.m. The Screaming Females along with the Street Eaters and local bands will rock the reception. Come enjoy art, food, and music with this year's guest artists.
