Team Minot Welcomes New 5th Bomb Wing Commander

TECH. SGT. JARAD A. DENTON | 5TH BOMB WING PUBLIC AFFAIRS

MINOT AIR FORCE BASE, N.D. --

Colonel Bradley Cochran accepted command of the 5th Bomb Wing from Col. Matthew Brooks during a change of command ceremony at Minot Air Force Base, May 31, 2018.

Cochran comes to the 5th BW from Ellsworth Air Force Base, South Dakota, where he served as vice commander.

"To me this ceremony is also a chance to remind ourselves of who the Warbirds are," Cochran said. "To celebrate the tremendous contributions, sacrifices and accomplishments of those who came before us."

At Minot AFB, Cochran will ensure the wing's combat readiness and will be responsible for operations involving the wing's fleet of B-52 bombers that provide deterrence and long-range strike capability for combatant command operations worldwide.

"To the men and women of this wing," Cochran began. "You should be extremely proud of your heritage. For more than nine generations now, our nation has relied on the men and women of the 5th Bomb Wing to defend freedom around the world and protect our way of life."

Cochran said he was humbled and proud to be called a "Warbird."

"As Warbirds we will continue to uphold the legacy that our predecessors have established," he said. "We will train with tenacity so we are ready when called upon. We will continue to develop our Airmen to take care of our families, to improve our quality of life and to develop the next generation of leaders who will take our place."

Shared tears and triumphs define Memorial Day for 920th Rescue Wing commander

MAJ. CATHLEEN SNOW | PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, FLA. (AFNS)

A year-and-a-half into commanding the 920th Rescue Wing, Col. Kurt A. Matthews is getting ready to attend his fourth burial.

Tragedies of the past year brought Memorial Day into perspective for 2,000 Airmen that serve with the 920th Rescue Wing, along with Matthews, who has seen the scars left by Vietnam in his own family.

The harsh reality of the pararescue motto; "these things we do, that others may live," serves as a Memorial Day reminder for the Air Force Reserve wing that is uniquely capable of performing amazing feats to save lives.

The 920th RQW's annual flight plan portfolio logged two 1,000-mile roundtrips over the vast sea to save two men whose sailboat caught fire and sunk, and a cruise ship passenger who became gravely ill—a trek to Texas to evacuate 235 citizens displaced by the ravages of Hurricane Harvey—and several stints up Oregonian mountains to pick up hikers trapped by weather events—all the while surpassing the intense scrutiny of an inspection and sending multiple personnel out the door to combat.

Checking off these seemingly immortal feats led to multiple accolades and awards for rescue warriors to celebrate, like the Power and Vigilance Award; the Jolly Green Association Rescue of the Year Award and the Medal of Honor on Ribbon for Rescue Missions at Sea in Gold, but tears brought on by tragic news of loss, dignified transfers, memorials and burials of fellow Airmen, were shed along the way.

The rescue community received a major blow when 7 Airmen were killed aboard Jolly 51, an HH-60G Pave Hawk helicopter that crashed in Iraq March 15, 2018. Among those killed were pararescuemen, Master Sgt. Bill Posch, 36, and Staff Sgt. Carl Enis, 31, two men assigned to the 308th Rescue Squadron within the 920th RQW. Currently, the majority of the 100-person squadron of elite special operators remain deployed throughout the Middle East.

Another loss preceded when a recently retired 920th Operations Group commander and close friend to many, Col. Chris Hannon, was killed after being struck by a car while bicycling. After years of flying dangerous combat rescue missions in helicopters throughout Afghanistan, it was hard to comprehend how a highly decorated athletic 57-year-old veteran and avid bicyclist could be here one day, and gone the next.

Five months earlier the grips of post-traumatic stress led Master Sgt. Pete Pavenski, an aerial gunner with the 301st Rescue Squadron, to

Summer Reading Program Kicks Off June 9 At Base Library

It's almost time for Summer Reading. The Base Library's Summer Reading Program will run from Saturday, June 9 to Saturday, August 18 and is open to all ages from infants to adults. This year's theme is "Reading Takes You Everywhere".

The Summer Reading Program starts with a Kick-off Party at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday, June 9 featuring a variety of travel themed activities including a puppet show as well as an opportunity to register for the Summer Reading Program.

Participants can register for the Summer Reading Program at the Library between June 9 and August 9 or register themselves online at <http://tinyurl.com/MinotLibrary>. While supplies last, everyone who registers at the Library will receive a t-shirt and gift bag.

It doesn't matter what you read or how quickly you can read it; what matters is the amount of time you spend reading. Any reading improves literacy and studies show that children who read recreationally out-perform those who don't.

There are a lot of prizes available for participants to earn including prizes for reaching their reading goals and grand prize drawings. Prizes have been provided by the DoD and through sponsorship from the Minot Spouses' Club. Thanks to Air Force Libraries partnership with USAA, Air Force eligible readers will be randomly selected to win a variety of prizes including tablets, eReaders, gift cards, and more. No Federal Endorsement of Sponsors Intended.

There will be programs all summer long for all age groups. Highlights include: a weekly STEAM program for older kids and teens on Thursdays from June 14 to August 16 at 3 p.m., an around-the-world themed "Library Mini-Golf" program for all ages on June 30, a Board Game Making Camp for older kids and teens from June 18-30, a Story Walk on July 14, and more. Check out the Library's Facebook page (Minot Air Force Base Library) for program details.

The Base Library is challenging the base's squadrons to a competition to see which squadron participates the most in the Summer Reading Program. The squadron with the most active duty members participating in the Base Library's Summer Reading Program will receive an award certificate and the right to display the Summer Reading Program Squadron Trophy for a year. The 5 BW Staff won the competition in 2017 while 742 MS took home the trophy in 2016. 705 MUNS won the competition in both 2014 and 2015.

The Summer Reading Program will end with a wrap-up party at 1:00 PM on Saturday, August 18. Grand prizes for all age categories will be awarded at that time.

Last year, Minot AFB had 805 total registrations for the Summer Reading Program and logged 1,354,443 minutes read.

For more information, call the Base Library at 723-3344.

take his own life.

"Nothing can fill the void left by the loss of these great men," said Matthews, a third generation pilot whose father, George, joined the Air Force in 1955, as the Vietnam War was revving up. George took his dad's commercial flying career to a new level with his commitment to serve his country--paving the way for Kurt.

At an early age, George instilled in Kurt the importance of honoring the service members who've made the ultimate sacrifice. "We as a family have always honored our fallen. It's part of a family tradition," said George Matthews.

Twelve years into George Matthews' Air Force career, he chalked up a number of different assignments, but still none in combat. However, in 1964 George's little brother, Aitken Matthews, 19, joined the Marines and was shipped off to Vietnam two years later. At the time, George was flying C-121s out of McClellan Air Force Base, California. Then, he received tragic news that his little brother was killed in combat. The Marines asked George if he would escort Kenny's body home for his dignified transfer. George readily accepted.

"It was the most difficult and saddest mission I ever had to do," said George with tears welling up in his eyes, but he was honored to do it.

He wore his Class-A service dress and showed up in San Francisco to take his little brother back to their hometown, Miami. Upon his return, the indelible image of their mother hugging Kenny's casket is seared into George's memory. Kenny was laid to rest at Miami's Memorial Gardens Cemetery with full military honors and George had another difficult job—to present his parents with his little brother's flag.

George went back to work flying missions out of California, but received orders to Vietnam three months later. He was soon flying fighter-bomber missions in the A-26 Invader over Southeast Asia. It was his job to stop war supplies being transported along the Ho Chi Minh trail. On the one year anniversary of his brother's death, February 14, 1967, George ensured the enemy felt the full effect of his lost brother.

"I flew with a special purpose that day," George said.

During his 11 months in Vietnam, four aircraft from his unit were shot down losing both of the two crew members (pilot and copilot) aboard each aircraft and he earned the Silver Star and Distinguished Flying Cross for his heroic actions.

George redeployed back home in October 1967. Nine months later his wife Carolyn gave birth to their second child, Kurt, on Sept. 11, 1968. They have three children in all. He went on to retire after 20 years of service.

"I've participated in Memorial Day ceremonies, but it gets harder to go," said George. "I always honor those men and women who will never come back. We should be grateful they lived.

We honor them for what they did for us, rather than mourn them."

When Master Sergeant Posch's remains were brought back to Patrick Air Force Base, "It was really tough," said George. "I saluted the casket as it went by," he said as the memories of his brother flooded back. "The older I get, the closer the emotions come to the surface," George said. "My brother is right there at the top."

"This Memorial Day means a lot, not only for the nation, but for my family and our rescue family," said Matthews. "I was glad I got to spend it with my father, and with the 308th Rescue Squadron Commander, (Lt. Col.) Tim Hanks." Colonel Matthews was invited to speak at the Brevard Veterans Center in Merritt Island, Florida, where he presented an honorary flag to the 308th RQS and officially added Master Sgt. William Posch's and Staff Sgt. Carl Enis' names to the center's memorial.

"Today is a day in which we should remember the joy, the laughter, the magnanimous life of Bill and Carl and the entire crew of Jolly 51. Today is another day in our healing process for family, friends, teammates and the community. It is a day in which we recognize the pain is real and still raw, but it is also the day we celebrate the lives of our fallen heroes," said Lt. Col. Tim Hanks, 308th RQS commander, during memorial services for the 920th's two fallen rescue heroes.

386th ECES emergency management team responds to real-world HAZMAT material

STAFF SGT. JOSHUA KING, 386TH AEW/PA

SOUTHWEST ASIA (AFNS) -- The 386th Expeditionary Civil Engineer Squadron emergency management team responded to unknown chemicals in unmarked barrels, May 29 and 30, 2018, at an undisclosed location in Southwest Asia.

When the 19 unmarked barrels were found - 13 at one site and six at another across base - emergency management got to work on a plan to examine and identify their contents.

"This didn't differ very much from the exercises we conduct," said Staff Sgt. Dallas Christian, 386th ECES emergency management plans NCO in charge, deployed from Ramstein Air Base, Germany. "We practiced everything we were going to do and it was smooth and went the way it was supposed to."

Emergency management trains for these situations bi-annually and never know when a real-world scenario will happen, said Master Sgt. Terri Adams, 386th ECES emergency management flight chief.

"We had to come out to the two sites and look at the barrels to try and determine what we thought was in them," Christian said. "This was the first time I've built an operations type plan, as well as the first time in my eight and a half years in the Air Force that I actually had to really do my job, which is a good thing."

"Our detectors can break down chemicals and identify what they are based on their properties," Adams said. "We found six barrels with chemical mixtures that we were unable to identify. We are going to work with a local laboratory to determine what those mixtures are."

The EM team sampled 19 barrels for potentially harmful chemicals. There is no potential hazard from these chemicals to the base populace.

Of the 19 unmarked barrels, 15 were filled with corrosive rubber removal substances used to clean runways. The other four were sent off for testing.

Airmen from the base fire department, medical group, safety office and bio-environmental office were there to support the EM team as they conducted their tests.

"The team and all of the other units did excellent," Adams said. "Nobody thought we would be able to go in and sample 19 barrels within a couple hours, but we did it and the results prove themselves. They got the job done and they rocked it."
