Unraveling the Air Force Ball Traditions

ERIN BEENE, NORTHERN SENTRY

This year the Air Force celebrated its 75th birthday with the Air Force Ball. Although delayed a bit here in Minot, the ball is the once-a-year formal event for military members and their spouses as well as local civic leaders to celebrate. As this event happens every year at every base, one will find the flow and schedule for the ball becomes very predictable. Social hour, opening remarks, toasts, POW/MIA recognition, dinner, dessert, speaker, and then dancing, it almost always follows the same pattern, no matter which base. If you have been to several, it may start to feel a little like ‘you’ve been to one, you’ve been to them all’ mentality, but they are founded in tradition.

To a seasoned spouse, the quirky traditions of the AF become commonplace; however, to the first timer, the Minot civilians and the Canadian guests who are perhaps experiencing this for the very first time it can perhaps seem odd and curious why certain aspects take place at the ball. While I can't and won't even try to explain the Air Force mentality, I can dig into some of the AF Ball's traditions for those new to the lifestyle to perhaps give a little more understanding behind some of the unique traditions and customs of the AF Ball for those who may not know.

THE TOASTS:

Every year the Toasts are written out on the ball program so guests know what and when to raise their glasses and the correct response to make. We toast to the United States, the President, the Chief of Staff of the Air Force and many more. At this year's Ball though, I noticed something out of the ordinary. Amongst the other common toast responses was a toast to His Majesty, King Charles III. In all my years of AF events, I can never remember toasting to the King (or Queen). So, according to <https://www.feldartillery.org/the-military-ball>, "When guests from another country are present, the commander or highest official of the host country proposes a toast to the head of state of the guest's country." In the case with this MAFB Ball, there were Canadian AF members present, so a toast to King Charles III is a nod to the commonwealth's symbolic "head of state" and needed to be included.

THE MIA/POW TABLE:

This table is set and left empty on purpose to remember all the American Service Members who are absent and unaccounted for. The MC's recite the commemorative speech explaining the various items on the table and what they represent. Everything placed on the table has meaning, but some of the most touching and maybe least well-known items are the lemon and salt. The traditional AF Ball script described the symbolism in those items like this: "A slice of lemon on the bread plate is to remind us of the bitter fate of those captured and missing in a foreign land. A pinch of salt symbolized the tear endured by those missing and their families who seek answers". This is the most solemn moment of any AF Ball as it serves a visual reminder to those not here with us. The moment is made even more poignant when the Honor Guard silently moves into positions around each place setting and sincerely places a cover (hat) of an Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, and Coast Guard on the dinner plate at each table setting in one soft motion. This table, otherwise known as the 'Missing Man Table' can have a few variations in its set up, but the tradition came about around the time of the Vietnam War. As is sometimes the case with military traditions, the specific documentation of where the idea started has become muddled over the years and no clear person or place can unilaterally claim the first 'Missing Man Table.' Instead, the ceremony erupted and still stands today as a remembrance of those who have never made it home. To learn more about the ‘Missing Man Table,’ see the National League of POW/MIA Families, <https://www.pow-miafamilies.org/missing-man-honors-table-history.html>.

THE CAKE CUTTING:

It has become a longstanding AF tradition to have the youngest Airmen and the oldest Airmen join together to cut the cake at the AF Ball. This tradition is also joined by cutting off the cake with a sword or saber. Research does not reveal why or when this first happened, but it is just one of those things that happens during these celebrations. Occasionally, the cake cutting honors will be bestowed upon the most junior ranking and the most senior ranking Airman despite age. It isn't clear if age or rank dictates who gets this honor, but it seems to be a mix of the two and a little dependent on the individual ball itself. At this year's ball, they had pre-orchestrated these two members, alerting them ahead of time, but some Balls make it a little more spontaneous with the announcers addressing the crowd and searching for these members amongst the crowd, which I think is the more fun way to do it. Either way, it is a fun tradition to honor the newest and longest serving Airmen.

There you have it, a few of the Air Force Ball's traditions explained. Military organizations often have their own language and way of doing things that seem normal once you're in, but can be jarring and confusing for the newcomer or outsider. Sometimes I forget about the staunch transition into military life and how long it took me to understand the Air Force "isms" I still don't understand even most of the AF terms-which I am ok with- but it's good to be reminded to look at things from an outside perspective from time to time.

A VIEW FROM OUR SIDE

ROD WILSON, NORTHERN SENTRY

Over the years my charitable work has provided me the opportunity to attend a lot of festive events labeled as “A Ball”. My reservations for the Air Force Ball were made about a month ago and I was truly excited for October 29 to arrive and for Sue, my wife, and I to dawn the appropriate dress and head out the door to the Clarion Convention center.

When arriving we were greeted by my once Adopted Airmen, SrA Caleb Kimmel. He was certainly quick to thank us for coming and piqued our interest with a “You are not going to believe how special it looks inside” statement. He was certainly correct.

We turned the final corner to enter the room and were truly stunned by decorations. There were high expectations for the evening, anyway, but they were clearly exceeded.

I maybe should have done a short explanation in the beginning of my article to give you a heads up that Sue and I have not had much exposure to events like the Air Force Ball. We are both North Dakota born and raised, and although we have made Minot our home for over 44 years, our time on base, albeit I do spend a fair amount of time in my reporting role, has certainly been limited.

Those sharing our table were from all over the U.S. closest to us was a TSgt from Atlanta, Georgia. She is just 15 short months away from her retirement, spending almost 20 years in the US Air Force. At this point, I now relinquish that I am an older citizen of Minot as the young TSgt was the age of one of my three, now grown and departed, sons. Feeling a bit old? Yeah, but we had such a great conversation with her, and the evening just kind of sped by.

By chance, our table was located adjacent to the MIA ceremony table, and later we had front row seats to the ceremonial cutting of the 75th Anniversary cake. I can totally understand the symbolic cutting of the cake with a sword by Airmen Eduardo Solana Trejo and Major Holly Black, with leadership alongside, but later a small knife seemed to do be a better option for cutting and sharing pieces of the cake with those in attendance.

I now have to reveal that Sue and I did not stay and dance the night away, as it appeared many of the younger Airmen were prepared to do. We made our rounds, greeting those we knew who were in attendance, and then headed home.

On the way out we greeted one of the visitors from Canada in their bright red attire and shook hands as a sign of the friendship between our countries, our city, and our armed forces.

We wished we could have stayed and thanked every one of our military personnel, and their spouses, in attendance. But instead, I will take the final few lines of my article to say “Thanks, from Rod & Sue Wilson”. The evening was special and one that we will never forget.

UPSIDE DOWN UNDER

MARVIN BAKER

As we find ourselves at the end of October and into early November, the growing season has ended and nearly all farmers' markets have ceased across the state.

It's always a bittersweet day when you attend your last farmers' market. You're sad that you won't be coming back next week, but happy that you'll be able get a much deserved break.

Most of the general population believes that farmers' market vendors turn off a switch at the end of the season, but that couldn't be further from the truth. There are plenty of things to do, they just aren't as physical as weeding and harvesting, or getting up at 3 a.m., to start

Anxious for another season to begin...

Crunch the numbers, order supplies for next year, put items in storage, thoroughly clean your equipment, if you're organic, plot next year's rotation and here's the best part, attend the farmers' market and growers convention.

The North Dakota Farmers' Market and Growers Association is in a unique position and is unlike other states that have similar organizations. It was once an arm of the North Dakota Department of Agriculture, but as the association grew, it split off and became its own entity.

But the Department of Agriculture continues to be a partner and plays a vital role in the operation. It has a local foods specialist whose job it is to work with markets and vendors to help them become successful.

The other part of this equation that is unique is in the Entrepreneurial Center for Horticulture at Dakota College in Bottineau. When the association got its own identity, ECH was there as well, just like the Ag Department to help a growing number of markets succeed.

In recent years that growth has tapered off but those that remain are quite stable thanks to both the ECH and the Ag Department.

And when the convention rolls around, both are there playing a major role in the two-days of meetings, seminars, keynotes and networking.

Having been a farmers' market vendor for 17 years, I've run across a lot of people who don't go and they have a variety of, I'll call them excuses. "I'm not paying the fee," "it's too far to drive," "I already know how to grow potatoes," and "nobody's going to tell me how to grow vegetables."

Truth be told, and this is the reason I'm writing about this topic, is because the educational opportunities that are presented at this convention every year, are incredibly helpful.

Since 2005, I've missed one annual convention in Minot and that was because I was on military active duty at U.S. Central Command. I've gone every other year for the educational opportunities, because let's face it, we never stop learning.

And in order to be successful at this kind of work, you have to embrace the wisdom of those teaching the classes because they know what they are doing for obvious reasons.

The best example I can provide is that of a family that recently moved to North Dakota from central Oregon. I was told these folks can grow anything, as long as it's in central Oregon, which would be the equivalent latitude of Rapid City, S.D., or Rochester, Minn., at 44 Degrees North Latitude.

In addition, Oregon is somewhat moderated by the Pacific Ocean current.

As a result, this family wants to find out all they can about growing garden produce between the 48th and 49th parallels. And for that reason, they are very excited about attending their first North Dakota Farmers' Market and Growers Association convention.

They want to learn all they can about growing in northern North Dakota and this event, coming up in February, will do just that.

THIS WEEK IN USAF HISTORY

A BRIEF HISTORY OF VETERAN’S DAY NOVEMBER 11

On November 11, 1919, President Woodrow Wilson declared the first “Armistice Day” to honor the heroism and sacrifice of America’s service members during WWI. Seven months before the Treaty of Versailles was signed to officially end the war, an armistice between the Allied nations and Germany was implemented. This cessation of hostilities began at 11:00 a.m. on November 11. In his proclamation, President Wilson said, “To us in America, the reflections of Armistice Day will be filled with solemn pride in the heroism of those who died in the country’s service and with gratitude for the victory, both because of the thing from which it has freed us and because of the opportunity it has given America to show her sympathy with peace and justice in the councils of the nations...” Originally, the holiday was meant to commemorate WWI veterans and promote the cause of world peace, but in 1954 it was redesignated as “Veteran’s Day” to honor all of the brave Americans who have served this country.

Louisa May Alcott’s Little Women

Adapted for the stage by Marisha Chamberlain

Onstage at Mouse River Players Community Theatre

MOUSE RIVER PLAYERS

Looking for something to do around the Thanksgiving Holiday that would be just the ticket for all members of your family? Consider attending a performance at The Arlene Theatre in downtown at Minot’s oldest, continuous community theatre.

Actively presenting live theater performances since 1972, the next show in Mouse River Players’ 51st season, Little Women, is currently in final rehearsals and ready to entertain with opening night on Thursday, November 17th.

Based on recollections of her own childhood, Louisa May Alcott’s heartwarming story describes the domestic adventures of a New England family of modest means but optimistic outlook. Under the guidance of their beloved Mother, the four young March sisters – tempestuous Jo, motherly Meg, shy Beth, and spoiled baby Amy – struggle to keep their family going while Father is away fighting in the Civil War. In this dramatized adaptation of the classic novel, as privation, illness and sibling rivalry cast their shadows, each girl strives to overcome their personal burdens to find joy and happiness in her true self.

Katy Allers, a Minot State Alumni and longtime volunteer with Mouse River Players, directs a skilled cast of actors at the Arlene Theatre located at 115 1st Street SE in Minot. Regular patrons may recognize the returning talents of Molly Kostek, Triniti Gregg, Brittany Armstrong, Sarah Bloom, Shad Huber, and Connor Donovan in principal roles along with newcomers Katie Waid, Elora Bailey, Ramanda Nash, Zeb Wallace, and Charles Crane.

Rounding out this colorful cast is our ensemble: Sinie Beck, Annie Carr, Aletheia Bloom, Braya Monley, Kenleigh Monley, Ali Monley, Angie Reinochi, Milagros Burney, and Kambria Hall. The ensemble will take on the roles of various friends and neighbors of the March household. The ensemble will also be greeting you as you enter the auditorium to assist with your seating needs.

While at the theater, check out our new floor to ceiling windows lighting up 1st Street! Little Women is the first show to be able to showcase the upgrade to our building façade. This is only the first step in what we hope will be a visual Renaissance for our building and the downtown area. Plans are

FCC provides valuable in-home child care services to support the families of Minot AFB

Provider of the Month Feature

NOVEMBER 2022

GINA CLARK-NELSON

What do you enjoy most about being an FCC Provider?

There is a list of things I enjoy about being an FCC provider, but my child care families are at the top of that list. I love my daycare kiddos with all my heart. I learn something new every day...from different ways to do a cartwheel to new methods for teaching the individual child. I enjoy watching them learn and grow while navigating this great big world. I want to thank their parents for sharing thier precious little people with me. Spending time with them is a daily blessing. I enjoy every minute of it!

What are your interests/hobbies?

I enjoy spending time watching anime, action movies, and playing board/video games with my husband and son. I love taking girl trips with my sisters and our friends. I also enjoy cooking and/or baking even though my baking skills are questionable. I have a blast hosting themed parties, playing on and coaching sports teams (children or adult league).

What advice do you have for new providers/those interested in being FCC Providers?

One bit of advice..."Never be afraid". If there is something you know in your heart you are great at take the leap. Being an FCC Provider is a rewarding career and a wonderful way to support our military families. If you are interested in family child care reach out to the nearest FCC Provider or FCC Coordinator today! We are excited for you to join our Minot FCC family! I look forward to meeting you soon.

A FASCINATING THING

Patricia Stockdill

Antlers are a fascinating thing. Just think that all members of the cervid family - deer, elk, caribou, and moose - grow and shed a pair of antlers every single season. There are many nutritional requirements to develop a set of antlers only to have them fall off and have to do it again each coming spring.

However, it is more than diet and nutrition. True, diet plays a significant role in antler growth. Genetics are another factor. Weather also influences diet because good growing conditions create good, healthy forage for good nutrition. Soil types are another influencing factor

The funny thing about antlers, though, is that they're not a major factor in determining the age of a deer.

True, they can give a person an idea of whether a deer is a young buck or fully mature. Young bucks aren't as likely to have massive, heavy, multi-point antlers their first year. However, it's equally true older deer aren't necessarily going to have the biggest set of antlers, either. They tend to put fewer nutrients into antler growth. For those old boys, it's more about being able to prepare for winter and staying alive than developing big antlers. They know what it takes to survive a northern winter.

While it is true that antler and body size can be an indication of just how old a deer is the reality is physical looks don't always translate into actual age. It really goes back to diet and genetics when it comes to antler development.

When it comes to aging a deer, the truth lies not in ones' antlers but in one's teeth.

North Dakota hunters might be surprised to learn that most deer harvested in the state typically aren't those elderly statesmen. One study found that most North Dakota deer taken by hunters were 2 and ½ years of age and younger – 80 percent, according to one game check that enabled biologists to age deer brought to the check station. Tooth development and tooth wear reveals the secrets to a deer's age. Like humans, deer replace baby teeth. By the time a young deer is about 18 months old it's in the process of getting its 'big boy' or "big girl" teeth as it gets its third premolar.

All permanent teeth are in place by the time a deer is 2 ½ years of age so biologists can age young deer by the presence – or lack of – permanent teeth. Once they're older than 2 1/2, though, tooth wear is the method used to age deer even though soil types and diet can influence tooth wear. Once they're older than 5 ½ years of age aging a deer by visual inspection of tooth wear is less reliable.

The most accurate way to age deer is by cross sectioning a tooth, much like rings on a tree. The Game and Fish Department has a publication "How Old is My Deer?". It's available to order free from their website, (gf.nd.gov). It's a process to get to the link but click "Resources" on the home page, "More resources", "Print resources", "Specialty publications", and then one will finally get to the order form to have the agency mail a free hard copy. The booklet includes photos of examples of a fawn with its emerging permanent incisors in comparison to one whose permanent front teeth are fully emerged. While incisors can help identify if a deer is a fawn, it's the cheek teeth – premolars and molars – that are better indicators.

The publication also shows the jaws of teeth from deer that are 1 ½, 2 ½, 3 ½, 4 ½, and 5 ½ years of age, along with an elder statesman for comparison. The bottom line is that while antler size can help hunters get a guestimate of the age of their buck; it really comes down to the teeth of the matter. Or, the Game and Fish Department publication "How Old is My Deer?" reminds hunters: "The number of antler points in no way corresponds to age."

AMUR TIGER

CREATURE FEATURES

- Once known as Siberian Tigers, Amur Tigers are the largest member of the cat family.
- Tigers are the only large wild cats with stripes. These stripes are camouflage that aid them while hunting. The stripe patterns of a tiger are not symmetrical from one side of the animal to the other. Their stripes are like our fingerprints.
- Amur Tigers have “built-in” ways to conquer the cold. They have a layer of fat on their flanks and belly, that helps protect them from the elements. Their thick, long coats also help keep them warm. And like most tigers, Amur Tigers have a ruff of fur around their neck and extra fur on the paws to protect them from the cold snow like built-in “snow boots”.

One of the most popular question asked by newcomers at Minot Air Force Base is how do I prepare my car for winter in North Dakota?

Even if it’s summer time, it’s never a bad idea to start preparing for the harsh winters and with the right gear, you can set yourself up for safety and success in the coming months.

1. Prepare an emergency kit--in the event of a car breakdown or roadside emergency in below freezing temperatures, it’s best to have a kit prepared. Basics such as blankets, extra clothing layers, an ice scraper, jumper cables, first aid kit, flashlight, hand warmers, and cell phone charger are a few essentials that will help you out in the midst of an emergency. If you want to be extra ready, you can include a pair of heavy duty snow boots, flares, snacks, a multi-tool, matches, sand or cat litter, tow cables or chains, etc. Emergency kits are especially useful when taking long trips through remote areas.

2. Check your battery or get it replaced before the cold hits--if you’re not sure how to check your car battery or replace it if necessary, you can always drop by Tires Plus for help! In the winter time, car batteries can suffer due to extremely cold temperatures, and your car won’t be able to run without a functioning battery. A good rule of thumb is to have your car battery checked twice a year, and most batteries will last between three and five years before their performance starts to go downhill, especially if you don’t drive your car for long periods of time.

3. Consider getting a block heater--when temperatures drop, your car’s oil can thicken and make it more difficult to start up your car and in turn increase wear and tear on your engine. Block heaters certainly aren’t a necessity in winter, but they are helpful in warming your car’s engine and the fluids inside to reduce stress on engine components and ensure a swifter start up.

4. Get some proper tires--investing in a quality pair of tires is worth it in the icy North Dakota winters. The team at Tires Plus can help you pick out the right type of tire to give you the best traction and control on slippery roads.

5. Inspect your brakes--before the snow hits, it’s a great idea to check your brakes. Moisture, road salt, icy roads, and all of the other conditions that come with winter time can put extra strain on your brakes, which are obviously very important in reducing the risk of car crashes or sliding around on the roads.

5. Check your engine coolant/antifreeze level--again, if you’re not familiar with how to check these, visit a professional who does! Engine coolant (which contains a mix of antifreeze and water) can prevent your engine’s cooling system from freezing in cold temperatures. It also keeps your engine from overheating, which can cause serious damage.

Whether you’re new to Minot or a seasoned resident, it’s important to make sure your vehicle is prepared for winter. Not only can this potentially save you money on repairs in the event of a major weather-related catastrophe, but it can also keep you and your family safe. If you need more suggestions on how to prepare your car for winter, come on down to Tires Plus and talk with one of our specialists!

SALMON WITH SPRING VEGETABLES AND PESTO

INGREDIENTS
4 (4 OZ EACH) SALMON, SKIN-ON, PIN BONES REMOVED
2 TABLESPOON OLIVE OIL
KOSHER SALT AND FRESHLY GROUND BLACK PEPPER
2/3 BUNCH ASPARAGUS, BOTTOM THIRDS OF STALKS REMOVED AND SLICED INTO 1 INCH PIECES ON THE BIAS
2/3 POUND SUGAR SNAP PEAS, ENDS TRIMMED AND SLICED INTO ½ INCH PIECES ON THE BIAS
6 2/3 OUNCE CHERRY TOMATOES, RINSED AND HALVED
1 1/3 LEMONS, HALVED
1/3 CUP FRESH PESTO
2/3 LEMON, ZESTED
FRESH BASIL LEAVES, FOR GARNISH

When ready to cook, set Traeger temperature to 500°F and preheat, lid closed for 15 minutes. Place a piece of parchment paper on a large baking sheet or in a roasting pan. Rinse the salmon and pat dry. Brush all sides of the salmon with olive oil, and sprinkle generously with salt and black pepper on all sides. Place the salmon pieces skin-side up on the sheet tray leaving 2 inches between each piece. Place the asparagus, snap peas, and cherry tomatoes in a bowl. Gently mix the vegetables with the remaining tablespoon of olive oil, 1/2 teaspoon salt and a fresh grinding of pepper. Scatter the vegetables evenly onto the sheet pan. Place the sheet pan on the grill. In addition, place the lemons cut-side down directly on the grill grate towards the front of the grill. Close the lid and cook for 5 minutes. After 5 minutes, remove the lemons from the grill and stir the vegetables. Close the lid and cook for 5 more minutes, or until the fish reaches an internal temperature of 140°F and can be flaked with a fork. Remove the sheet pan from the grill. Place the fish and vegetables on a serving platter and drizzle with the pesto. Squeeze the grilled lemon over the top of the fish and vegetables. Sprinkle the lemon zest over the fish and add a few basil leaves for garnish. Serve immediately. Enjoy!

There are unique needs for Prek-12 military-connected families Navigating educational systems across the United States is challenging as you prepare to relocate to a different community. As you prepare to PCS with your military-connected student, one available resource to ease this transition is the Military Interstate Children's Compact (MIC3).

MIC3 is an interstate compact across all 50 States and the District of Columbia. The compact addresses the challenges of the military children encounter on their frequent relocations stateside. It allows for the uniform treatment as military children transfer between school districts in member states. The Compact only applies to public schools and focuses on specific impacts on military connected children such as the transfer of records, course sequencing, graduation requirements, exclusion from extracurricular activities, redundant or missed entrance/exit testing, kindergarten and first grade entrance age variances, and power of custodial parents while parents are deployed.

Military Interstate Children's Compact (MIC3) covers students of Active Duty Members of the Uniformed Services, including members of the National Guard and Reserve on active duty orders (Title 10), members or veterans who are medically discharged or retired for one year, members who die on active duty, for a period of one year after death, and uniformed members of the Commissioned Corps of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), and United States Public Health Services (USPHS).

MIC3 is an incredible resource and is the policy ensuring consistency of the educational experiences of military connected student. For more information on the compact, visit mic3.net. If you are due to PCS or have educational questions or concerns, now is a great time to contact a School Liaison! Please reach out to the Minot AFB School Liaison at mafb.school.liaison@us.af.mil or 701-723-1447.

Dakota Elementary: More than a Place to Learn and Work

ERIN BEENE, NORTHERN SENTRY

There are three schools located within Minot AFB: North Plains Elementary, Memorial Middle School, and Dakota Elementary. At the Northern Sentry we love our relationships with all three schools and they will each get their moment to show off what makes their school so special. First up is Dakota Elementary where their forward thinking teachers and hardworking, dedicated staff represent a special bond. Their teachers support a new child-focused learning concept and one kitchen staff employee has overcome extreme health issues in this past year alone.

Dakota 1st grade teacher Jessica Foerster and 3rd grade teacher Megan DeGree have embraced a new way of learning with the 'Power of Yet' teaching strategy. This concept has been introduced in all of Minot Public Schools for Math, but these two teachers have grabbed onto the program and utilized it in fun new ways. The program allows a more flexible type of learning speed for students. Instead of letter grades on assignments, this program puts students and their educators in charge of their individual learning. It teaches that just because a student doesn't understand a new concept right now, he/she will. It is just a matter of when or YET. Ms. DeGree said that it takes away the stress of learning as kids can understand that it's ok if they don't get a concept right away. There are things some students grasp and others need more time with, and that's ok. It is about the power of knowledge knowing each student will get there, just at different speeds. Ms. DeGree said, "It's kind of beautiful in that it [the program] scoops up the kids who need extra help, and lets them fly and soar, knowing that it is ok if they need to take another day to learn a concept." Ms. Foerster explained that the 'Power of Yet' conceptual program "teaches kids to set a goal and to not give up, but persevere to reach that goal even if it takes a little longer." Both teachers have created special projects to help students understand that there is power in the word YET and have embraced the program in innovative new ways.

Besides teachers, there are many staff members and behind the scenes parents who make Dakota Elementary function. One such dedicated staff member is Nutrition Service Assistant, Julie Huntley. Ms. Huntley loves her job so much that after she battled leukemia diagnosis early last year and had to take time off, she could not wait to return to her job at Dakota. Ms. Huntley said, "this is the hardest job I have ever had, physically, but it's the job I have loved the most out of all my jobs." Ms. Huntley found out she had cancer in February of this year. Symptoms progressed very rapidly and before she knew it she was airlifted to a specialty hospital in Fargo where she suffered a stroke, and was nearly put on life support for a time. When she stabilized, and started treatment, it included IV chemotherapy as well as oral chemotherapy twice a day for the first 30 days. She spent the summer months at different hospitals within the state and some time at home as well, which she described as grueling. Obviously because of her intense health needs, Huntley resigned her job at Dakota Elementary in the spring of 2022. However, as this fall neared, she noticed that her job was still not filled at the school. Mrs. Kathryn Lenertz, Dakota Principal, reached out to Ms. Huntley and asked if she would like to apply again for her old job when she was ready. Ms. Huntley was so excited to have the chance to go back to work at Dakota again. So on October 17, just as Ms. Huntley was finishing up chemo, she was welcomed back to the kitchen staff at Dakota Elementary with open and excited arms. "She is truly a miracle and I am a firm believer we weren't able to fill that position on purpose and it was just waiting for her," said Mrs. Lenertz.

The atmosphere of the Dakota Elementary teachers, staff and principal is one of community, partnership and care. It was evident from the conversations that it truly is a place of learning and commitment to the staff and students alike.

1st grade teacher Jessica Foerster supports the new 'Power of Yet' program which allows for student learning at different paces.

On October 17, 2022, Erina Murphy, Shannon, Carissa Lagerquist & Diane Avery welcome back Dakota kitchen staff employee Julie Huntley after a battle with cancer.

Dakota Elementary 3rd grade teacher Mrs. Megan DeGree shows off a class project and book to support the "Power of Yet" program.

Winter driving can be trying on both the vehicle and its operator. As with many other things in life, preparation is the key to success. A few cold-weather parts and preparatory procedures can make the difference between being stuck in a drift and making it home.

Routine vehicle care is the best way to keep from being left out in the cold. This includes tune-ups and inspection and replacement of worn belts and hoses. Cold weather makes pliable materials stiffer and more brittle. It also makes fluids thicker. With this in mind, people who live in extreme climates often use light-viscosity synthetic lubricants, which work across a wider temperature range than conventional oil. Those who don't want the added expense sometimes use lighter-weight oils in the winter, such as 5W30.

Antifreeze should be kept at approximately a 60:40 coolant-to-water ratio. In extreme conditions, too little antifreeze in the mix can allow the coolant to freeze and crack the engine block. Installing a higher-temperature thermostat, say 195 degrees, will help heater performance and help the engine burn off condensation.

Battery maintenance will also improve cold-weather performance. For batteries that require maintenance, make sure that all cells are full of water. Keep all battery terminals and cable ends clean, and make sure the battery is well grounded.

Several engine-block heating systems are available, both on the OE level and from the aftermarket. Most new vehicles sold in cold country come with factory-installed block heaters that replace one of the engine's freeze plugs or connect to the heater hose.

PRE-FLIGHT CHECK

Perform a general check of brakes, lights, defroster/heater, fluid levels, belts, hoses and exhaust system.

Check the condition of wiper blades and consider upgrading to winter/snow blades. Always "park" blades before turning off the vehicle to minimize chances of sticking to the glass. Better yet, lift blades off the glass overnight.

Check the coolant level and make sure that the radiator has the proper mixture of antifreeze and water.

Check tire inflation to verify optimal tire contact with the road.

Keep the gas tank at least half full. This limits the amount of condensation that can enter the fuel system and also can improve traction, especially in rear-wheel-drive vehicles, by adding weight. Adding gasoline antifreeze to the fuel tank will help protect against fuel-line freezing.

Consider adding weight to the trunk or pickup bed in rear-wheel drive vehicles. Bags of sand both add traction-improving weight and can be dumped on ice to improve traction further. Make sure to secure the extra weight to the vehicle with motorcycle straps or other suitable restraints.

Before departing, scrape ice and snow from the roof in addition to every window, mirror and light. Never splash hot water on glass to melt ice.

Lube door locks and latches and coat weather stripping with silicone spray to help keep doors from freezing shut.

Prepare for the worst. Put extra winter clothes, blankets and even a sleeping bag in the trunk, take water and food (such as energy bars), pack a flashlight, extra batteries, matches and a first-aid kit. Take along a cell phone if possible.

Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University is the world's pre-eminent university for aviation and aerospace education.
