Ectopic Pregnancy Often Fatal PRAIRIE DOC® PERSPECTIVES

BY DEBRA JOHNSTON, M.D.

It's been a long time since I've worked in the ER, but some stories stay with me. One such story belongs to a woman in her early 30s. After a year of trying to conceive, she was finally pregnant. Then she started spotting. When she developed severe pain, and almost fainted while putting their toddler to bed, her husband brought her to the emergency room.

It didn't take long for us to identify an ectopic pregnancy. The fertilized egg had implanted in her fallopian tube. Our obstetrician took her to the operating room, where we found large amounts of blood in her abdomen. The surgeon removed the pregnancy and the damaged tube, stopping the bleeding.

The uterus is a highly specialized organ. It is usually a bit smaller than a pear but stretches with pregnancy to accommodate six plus pounds of baby and another three plus pounds of placenta and amniotic fluid. The muscle is invaded by the developing placenta but remains strong enough to push a baby out months later.

In a normal pregnancy, the fertilized egg divides as it travels down the fallopian tube, entering the uterus approximately four days after fertilization. By seven days after fertilization, or the third week of pregnancy, as many as 300 cells have developed from that fertilized egg. These cells have started to differentiate. Some will form the embryo, and some will go on to form the placenta and other organs that protect and support the pregnancy. It is around this time that the blastocyst, which is the technical term for these cells, will attach to the lining of the uterus. For this attachment to happen, both the uterus and the blastocyst must be in exactly the right stage. The window of opportunity is only a few days which pass by even before a woman misses her period.

Unfortunately, not all pregnancies land in the uterus. Pregnancies that attach elsewhere are called ectopic pregnancies. Most ectopic pregnancies are found in the fallopian tubes, although they can be located on the ovary, the cervix, or somewhere in the abdomen.

Many ectopic pregnancies will resolve on their own: the cells will stop dividing and the mother's body will reabsorb the tissue. However, some will continue to grow, causing tearing and bleeding. Untreated, continuing ectopic pregnancies are almost always fatal for the pregnant person. Even with modern imaging and surgical techniques, ectopic pregnancies are the leading cause of pregnancy-related death in early pregnancy.

My patient's story had a happy ending. Thanks to early diagnosis and treatment, she survived her ectopic pregnancy, and she now dotes on her grandchildren. Too many women around the world don't get that chance.

Be thrifty in your food purchases

PRAIRIE FARE

BY JULIE GARDEN-ROBINSON,
FOOD AND NUTRITION SPECIALIST,
NDSU EXTENSION

We took our younger daughter out for celebratory dinner at a somewhat “fancy” restaurant. She had been selected for an internship and also had a second part-time job. We typically go to this restaurant for birthdays or other special occasions. Usually, a line extended out the door on Friday nights.

On this particular night, we were seated immediately. In fact, the manager seemed very happy we chose this restaurant. He asked us if we were there for a special occasion.

The next day we went shopping for some items for her first apartment as she continues her college years in the fall.

I like to rescue furniture by repainting or refinishing wooden pieces. Along with saving money, I get some personal satisfaction in making old things new again. I learned these lessons from my youth.

The parking lots to the thrift stores had many cars, and the stores were brimming with people. My husband commented on the high-end vehicles in the parking lot. He would notice things like that.

I found this to be an interesting commentary on the current economy. Consumers are increasingly conscious about how they are spending the money. “Thrifting” supports the local community and prevents items from going to a landfill.

According to an online “Resale” report, 80% of consumers are OK with buying secondhand, which is a significant increase in the last few years. From clothing to furniture, thrifting is particularly popular among the high school and college-age crowd.

Being thrifty is a good thing in that money and other resources are used carefully and not wastefully.

In fact, the U.S. Department of Agriculture “thrifty food plan” made its debut in 1975 and replaced the 1962 Economy Food Plan.

With the current rising costs of food and fuel, using our resources wisely is a good thing. The USDA currently provides official nutritious cost of food at home at three levels: low-cost, moderate-cost and liberal plans for children through adults ages 71 and up.

For example, a 51-year-old male would expect to spend $61.20 weekly on food at home for a low-cost plan, $77 weekly for a moderate-cost plan and $92.30 weekly for a liberal plan.

The thrifty food plan at www.fns.usda.gov/snap/thriftyfoodplan aligns with current nutrition recommendations, represents a limited food budget, reflects what people buy and eat, and supports a healthy lifestyle.

These are some of the tips provided from USDA to help us stay on our budget.

When your food budget allows, buy extra low-cost, nutritious foods such as potatoes and frozen orange juice concentrate. These foods keep well.

Compare the cost of convenience foods with the same foods made from scratch. “Convenience foods” are products such as fancy baked goods, frozen meals, and vegetables with seasonings and sauces. Most of these cost more than similar foods prepared at home.

Try store brands. They usually cost less than name brands, but they taste as good and generally have the same nutritional value.

Take time to compare fresh, frozen and canned foods to see which is least expensive. Buy what’s on special and what’s in season.

Prevent food waste. Buy only the amount that your family will eat before the food spoils.

Staying on a food budget requires planning, and NDSU Extension has many resources to help you, including “Pinchin’ Pennies in the Kitchen” and the “What’s Cookin’?” series. Search online for “NDSU Extension Food Preparation” for these topics plus many more.

Often you can prepare restaurant-like foods at home that are more nutritious and often more economical. Here is a recipe for baked chicken nuggets.

Baked Chicken Nuggets

- 1.5 pounds boneless, skinless chicken breast*
- 1 cup cornflakes or other ready-to-eat cereal crumbs
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon Italian herb seasoning or seasoning of your choice
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- ¼ teaspoon onion powder
- Dips such as honey mustard sauce, barbecue sauce or ketchup (optional)

Preheat oven to 400 F. Cut the chicken into bite sized pieces. Place cereal in a plastic bag and crush using a rolling pin or can. Add remaining ingredients to cereal crumbs. Close bag tightly and shake until blended. Add a few chicken pieces at a time to crumb mixture and shake to coat evenly. Discard any unused crumb mixture. Place chicken pieces on greased baking sheet so they are not touching. Bake until golden brown with an internal temperature of 165 F or about 12 to 14 minutes.

*You can substitute chicken thighs, but you will need to remove the skin and bones.

Makes four servings. Without dipping sauce, each serving has 230 calories, 4.5 grams (g) fat, 39 g protein, 6 g carbohydrate, 0 g fiber and 130 milligrams sodium.

- Check camping and activity regulations on N.D. Game & Fish Wildlife Mgmt. Areas, including "Pack it in, pack it out" for garbage.
- June 25 & 26: Frontier Military Days, Fort Stevenson State Park, Garrison, noon to 4 p.m.
- July 1: Deadline for electronic "no trespass" posting. Go to the N.D. Game & Fish Dept. for information.

Tournaments:

- June 25: Missouri River, Washburn; Lake Audubon, cabin sites.

Fishing:

Lake Sakakawea elevation, June 20: 1,832.92 feet above mean sea level; 20,100 cubic feet per second (CFS) Garrison Dam average daily releases.

Missouri River gauge height, Stanton: 7.49 feet.

Missouri River gauge height, Washburn: 9.3 feet.

- N.D. Game & Fish Dept. game wardens: Chain of lakes on the McClusky Canal starting to produce activity. Improving walleye success on the east end of Lake Sakakawea.

- Lakes Audubon & Sakakawea, Cenex Bait & Tackle, Lakes Audubon & Sakakawea: East end of Lake Sakakawea continues improving for walleye. Try a variety of presentations with a move towards summer presentations of spinners and nightcrawlers from the east end embankment west past Douglas Bay. Work deeper water for walleye on Lake Audubon. Improving walleye success in the Missouri River tailrace.
- Lakes Audubon & Sakakawea, Hwy. 83 Lawn & Leisure, Lakes Audubon & Sakakawea: Continued improving walleye success on the east end of Lake Sakakawea. Lake Audubon remains fair to good for walleye.
- Lake Sakakawea, Dakota Waters Resort, Beulah: Work back bays in 8 to 10 feet yet with so much wind. Try Lindy rigs and bottom bouncers with mix of minnows or nightcrawlers.
- Lake Sakakawea, Indian Hills Resort, Garrison: Work 4 to 15 feet with water temperatures warming along the north shore. Look for a switch to nightcrawlers.
- Lake Sakakawea, New Town: Good for walleye, including the upper end of the Van Hook Arm. Bite is starting to switch to nightcrawlers.
- Missouri River, Dakota Tackle, Bismarck: No Missouri River reports with lots of recreational boating in the Bismarck-Mandan area.
- Missouri River, Enerbase of Washburn: Lots of activity on the east end of Lake Sakakawea with fair to good walleye success. Some activity on the Missouri River but no reports on success. Lake Audubon remains fair to good for walleye.

- Missouri River System, Scott's Bait & Tackle, Pick City: Missouri River tailrace continues producing small walleye, especially during the day from boats. Sort through, though, for the nice eating keepers. Fair for catfish from boats during the day down river and in the tailrace. Bigger walleye coming at night from the rocks. Also try the boat ramp from shore. Try shallow jigging for walleye or switch to trolling in 12 to 15 feet on the east end of Lake Sakakawea but the bite is still inconsistent along the south shore. Better success seems west yet on the south side.
- McLean Co. area lakes, Cenex of Wilton: Lots of activity on New Johns Lake, Nelson Lake, and West Park Lake.

Additional North Dakota river gauges and streamflow:

- Heart River, Mandan: River stage, 0.4 feet; streamflow, 206 CFS.
- Knife River, Hazen: River stage, 2.54 feet; streamflow, 191 CFS.
- Little Missouri River, Long X Bridge: River stage, 1.23 feet; streamflow, 904 CFS.
- Missouri River, Williston: River stage, 22.9 feet.
