Stay Hydrated in the Heat of Summer

PRAIRIE FARE

BY JULIE GARDEN-ROBINSON,
FOOD AND NUTRITION SPECIALIST,
NDSU EXTENSION

“Wow, the prices went up in the last several days,” I exclaimed.

My husband was studying the bill at the drive-through. We like to stop in for a quick treat now and then, and we usually get the same thing. We had been at the restaurant within the last week.

“They charged us for a glass of ice water,” he said.

“Ice water costs $3?” I asked the server in disbelief.

“You had a medium,” the server responded.

“I have never paid for tap water here,” I replied. “Is this new?”

The manager walked over to the window to determine what the question was. She probably was checking on the “problem customers” in the car at the window.

“There is no charge for water,” she said. “This was rung up as a medium beverage.”

She handed us $3, and we went along our way. I would have wanted a carbonated beverage if I was paying for it.

We learned a lesson. Be sure to check your receipts. Tap water usually is free with a purchase at a restaurant.

If you think the cost of gas is high, consider this. The two-cup portion of ice water equals one-eighth of a gallon. Paying $3 for the ice water would equal paying $24 per gallon of gas.

We need about eight cups of fluids daily from beverages and food. If you drink municipal “city” water and use a reusable water bottle, your hydration is free.

If you do not like the flavor of your tap water, consider getting a pitcher with a filter.

A 2022 study published in the American Journal of Health Promotion showed that 36% of adults used a filter when drinking tap water at home, while 14% did not drink tap water at home. The researchers found that people drank more tap water if they used a filter at home.

You can add fresh orange or lemon slices, strawberries or mint leaves to add a little flavor without calories. Flavor-infused water may encourage you to drink more fluids.

With the warm weather of summer, staying hydrated is good for our health.

Water has many purposes. Staying hydrated helps our bodies maintain a normal temperature, it cushions joints and helps our body rid itself of waste. Our bodies are made up of about 60% water.

When the temperatures soar, as they did in June, staying hydrated becomes especially important. If you are working or playing outdoors, you lose more fluid through perspiration.

If you are gardening, biking, walking, running or doing other physical activity, be sure to hydrate yourself regularly.

When I saw my plants wilting and the birds “panting” in my backyard the other day, it was a good reminder. Your plants, pets and livestock also need water.

We all have a “hydration gauge” available when we visit a bathroom. Your urine should be straw-colored if you are fully hydrated. However, certain medications and foods may affect the color of urine.

Age, sex, breastfeeding and/or pregnancy status affect the amount of fluids we need. Remember that both food and drinks provide water to maintain health.

Stay hydrated with these tips.

Use a refillable water bottle, wash it daily and refill it throughout the day at work or home.

Choose water instead of sweetened, caloric drinks to quench your thirst. Water hydrates best.

Make your beverages count toward your overall nutrition. Along with water, enjoy milk and 100% fruit or vegetable juice as your beverages. Try making home-made frozen juice pops.

If you find beer refreshing, have a bottle of water as your follow-up beverage. Alcohol-containing beverages actually are somewhat dehydrating.

Moderate your coffee intake to about three to five cups daily. Caffeinated beverages such as coffee and cola are less hydrating than plain water.

Drink water before, during and after physical activity. In most cases, sports drinks are not necessary except for elite athletes. Your next meal will replace any electrolytes (minerals) you have lost during exercise.

Enjoy more fruits and vegetables. Fruits and vegetables are more than 90% water by weight.

Make your own treats at home. This recipe has been popular with children’s programs, and adults enjoy these too. Not only are these smoothie bowls refreshing, but they also provide a variety of nutrients. Have a glass of ice water on the side to double up on hydration.

Smoothie Bowls

- 1/2 cup spinach
- 1/2 cup vanilla Greek yogurt
- 1 1/2 cup frozen fruit
- 2 tablespoons toppings (fresh fruit, granola, coconut, chia seeds, etc.)

Add spinach, yogurt and fruit to a blender or food processor. Blend until smooth. Pour smoothie in a bowl and top with desired toppings.

Makes two servings. Each serving has 110 calories, 2.5 g fat, 7 g protein, 19 g carbohydrate, 5 g fiber and 40 mg sodium.

Dakota Recreation Report

BY BY PATRICIA STOCKDILL

but still inconsistent. Try Douglas or Deepwater bays as well as around Indian Hills. Look for catfish success in the back bays. Work gravel areas for smallmouth bass. Some activity on Lake Audubon, as well.

•Lakes Audubon & Sakakawea, Hwy. 83 Lawn & Leisure, Lakes Audubon & Sakakawea: Lake Sakakawea continues producing walleye on the east end. Work shallow in 10 to 15 feet using plain snells with bottom bouncers and minnows and nightcrawlers. Work weed edges spinners with nightcrawlers or leeches or slow death hooks with nightcrawlers for walleye on Lake Audubon.

•Lake Sakakawea, Dakota Waters Resort, Beulah: Walleye moving to outside lake points in deeper water. Try 12 to 20 feet with a switch more so towards nightcrawlers with Lindy rigs and bottom bouncers. Try No. 7 or 9 Flicker Minnows if opting for crankbaits.

•Lake Sakakawea, Indian Hills Resort, Garrison: Fair to good for walleye in 10 to 20 feet using spinners with leeches. Try the south side and locate warmer water.

•Lake Sakakawea, New Town: Continued walleye success in the Van Hook Arm.

•Missouri River, Dakota Tackle, Bismarck: Lake Audubon fair for walleye with some muskie success. Remember the 48-inch minimum of muskie, though. Some activity on the Missouri River tailrace but not many reports. Less activity on the river around Bismarck-Mandan and south due to lots of recreation activity and limited access farther south.

•Missouri River, Enerbase of Washburn: Lake Sakakawea continues producing walleye on the east end. Try Deepwater Bay along the north shore as well as south shore bays depending on wind. Lake Audubon also remains fair for walleye. Some activity on the Missouri River but limited reports.

•Missouri River System, Scott's Bait & Tackle, Pick

City: Missouri River tailrace inconsistent following recent weather fronts. However, lots of small walleye success continues. Try jigs and minnows around the "blowout" area or late night hours in the chutes from boats for walleye. Fair to good for catfish from boats during the day scattered throughout the river. Look for improving trout and salmon later into the summer months. Try the boat ramp, rocks, or campground from shore using nightcrawlers or minnows for walleye and catfish during the day or crankbaits from shore at night for walleye. East end of Lake Sakakawea remains inconsistent. Try jigs in 8 to 10 feet around Douglas or Steinko bays and 7 Sisters with best success along the north shore. Also try spinners and bottom bouncers with nightcrawlers. Tough bite from the shore along the south side.

•McLean Co. area lakes, Cenex of Wilton: Windy weather continues limiting activity on area lakes at times but try minnows when anglers can get on the water with generally fair success throughout area lakes.

Tree-based Names on the Prairie DAKOTA GARDENER

BY JOE ZELENIK
FORESTER, NDSU EXTENSION

I've always found North Dakota's place names to be confusing. The city of Hettinger is not in Hettinger County. Nor is Steele found in Steele County. But Grand Forks is in Grand Forks County and Pembina is in Pembina County. I can't keep track of it.

Places are sometimes named for nearby natural features. Though Mountain is a little bit higher than the nearby Red River Valley, it's not nearly as high as the neighboring Pembina Hills. Where's the nearest butte to Butte, in northeastern McLean County?

On the prairie, there aren't many place names associated with trees but there are a few. More than I expected when I began searching. We have the Elm, Maple and Forest Rivers in the eastern part of the state. Can we count the Bois de Sioux (Woods of the Sioux) River as well? Cedar Creek begins in Slope County and eventually empties into the Cannonball River.

Be careful when referring to Cottonwood Creek, though. North Dakota has two of them. One is located in LaMoure County and the other is in Dunn County. Clearly, these massive trees are important along these watercourses.

I haven't quite been able to figure out where Lone Tree Creek is. I think it's in Bowman County. But Lone Tree Township is in Golden Valley County. Clearly, I need to work on my geography.

More than 50 townships in North Dakota have some sort of tree-based name. A drive from Poplar Grove Township in Ramsey County to Elmdale Township in northwestern Ward County will take a little under three hours. Along the way, you can stop by Evergreen Township and White Ash Township, also in Ward County.

Seven townships have some form of the word "elm" in the name, while six have the word "oak." A dozen townships have the word "rose" in their name, which is awesome. After all, North Dakota's state flower is the prairie rose.

I'm confused, though, by Buckeye Township in Kidder County and Cypress Township in Cavalier County. Neither buckeye trees nor cypress trees are native to the state. I can't wait to dig up more information about these areas.

Have you driven down Elm Street in Gackle? How about Elm Street in Hebron? There's one in Kindred, too. In fact, 21 communities in North Dakota have an Elm Street. Lisbon has both an Elm Street and an Elm Lane. It must get confusing for the postal workers there.

If you want a nice tree-based trip through Grand Forks, you can go to Linden Court and Mulberry Drive. In fact, there are more than 40 streets in Grand Forks that have tree-based names. The thought of driving through Balsam Circle, Pines Circle, Poplar Circle and River Oaks Circle makes me a little dizzy, though. If it's a hot summer day, stop by Shady Lane for an afternoon break.
